

Textbook Websites

Abebooks.com

Free shipping and a way to shop 13,500 online booksellers at once.

Addall.com

Addall.com compares textbook prices across the web. It provides you with all the fine details – like taxes and shipping involved for each store.

Affordabook.com

Find discounted textbooks and novels.

Alibris.com

Alibris will connect you to independent booksellers across the United States. You can find some great deals here.

Allbookstores.com

Compare prices across hundreds of bookstores affiliated with Allbookstores.com – which looks a bit like Amazon.com.

Amazon.com

I've bought and sold my textbooks through Amazon.com many times. You can get connected to some independent sellers who offer great rates on used textbooks.

BetterWorld.com

Fund literacy, care for the environment, and save money on textbooks with BetterWorld.com. They even offer free shipping. Check out their prices.

Bigwords.com

This website is a book search engine that aggregates prices of textbooks across the web.

Bookbyte.com

Another website that allows you to buy and sell used textbooks.

BookCloseouts.com

Cross your fingers and pray that you can find a discounted textbook here. You can find some amazing deals.

BookFinder.com

Lifehacker.com recommends this book search engine to find cheap textbooks.

Books-A-Million.com

A site similar to half.com – which allows you to buy discounted textbooks and novels.

BuyUsedTextbooks.com

Buy and sell used textbooks

CampusBooks.com

CampusBooks.com claims to save students 58% on average on textbooks. Prices include tax, shipping and coupons.

CampusBooks4Less.com

Another bookstore search engine to find cheap books.

Campusi.com

This search engine compares textbook prices on over 200 online bookstores.

CollegeSwapShop.com

This nifty website allows you to buy, sell, or swap used textbooks.

CompareTextbooks.com

A cool spot to get price comparisons on your textbooks at different websites.

Chegg.com

Chegg.com allows students to rent college textbooks – instead of paying the high cost of buying them at your campus bookstore.

DirectTextBook.com

This website compares textbook prices across a bunch of popular online stores like Ebay.com, Half.com, and Amazon.com.

Ebay.com

You might be surprised to find your textbooks on sale at Ebay.

eCampus.com

eCampus.com provides a place to buy and sell discounted textbooks. You've probably seen their ads in your campus newspaper.

FreeloadPress.com

I've never used this service, but they offer free textbooks in return for completed surveys. These textbooks have ads in them – which help pay the cost. Leave a comment if this service is legit or not.

Half.com

I've found some great discounted textbooks here.

Halfvalue.com

This is a typical buy & sell used textbook website.

iChapters.com

Save the environment and your money by purchasing only the book chapters you need to read as an eBook.

Textbookrevolution.org

A website that's beginning to archive links to free textbooks across the web. A very cool project!

TextbookX.com

You may have heard of TextBookX.com because they have a handy Facebook app that allows students to buy and sell directly through your profile. I've never used this service, but leave a comment if you have. I'm curious if it worked for you.

ValoreBooks.com

ValoreBooks.com promises cheap textbooks for students.